I INTRODUCTION

Your enrolment for training at the Algerian Petroleum Institute (IAP) is intended to help you acquire knowledge and develop skills that will enable you to perform more effectively in your position.

To this end, you are required to observe strict and unreserved compliance with these Internal Regulations.

II PEDAGOGICAL SECTION

ARTICLE 1 · Forms and Methods of Training and Learning

Training content is characterised by basic and advanced technical instruction delivered in person or remotely (e-learning), laboratory work, simulations, conferences, seminars, on-the-job training (OJT), and personal study assignments. The training is organised around:

- Instruction delivered as courses or lectures in small groups, allowing optimal learner participation;
- Completion of personal theoretical and practical assignments to supplement the instruction received;
- Scheduling of industrial visits and practical placements;
- Increased consultation between learners and the Trainer;
- Distance learning via an e-learning platform or videoconferencing.

ARTICLE 2 · Training System

The training system is modular for long-term programmes. Modules are defined by a training programme designed jointly by the IAP and the learner's home entity. This training programme is validated by the IAP's Pedagogy Directorate. Short courses and seminars are offered and made available through the ERP.

ARTICLE 3 · Training Delivery Method

A training programme is a set of phases combining several theoretical and/or practical courses, placements, and/or a period of professional immersion.

A module is a set of theoretical and/or practical courses totalling at least 12 hours. Several modules may make up a training pathway.

Modules are delivered in 1h30 sessions followed by a break of no more than 15 minutes. Each day is organised into four sessions. Timetables are set by the School's Sub-Directorate of Studies. The average weekly training load ranges between 12 and 30 hours.

ARTICLE 4 · Training Assessment

4.1 — Professionalisation / Skills-Development Pathways

For the assessment of knowledge before, during and at the end of each training action, the evaluation method for each learning unit comprises:

- Continuous assessment through short written or oral tests;
- At least one long written test lasting 1h30;
- A written summative assessment covering the entire content of the learning unit.

FORMULA

Module grade = $0.4 \times \text{FA} + 0.6 \times \text{FE}$

FA = Formative Assessment · FE = Final Evaluation

4.2 — Short Courses, Seminars and Other Actions

A diagnostic assessment at the start, and an assessment of the knowledge and skills acquired, are carried out for each training action. The final grade for a short course or seminar is the result of the assessment of acquired knowledge and skills conducted at the end of the training action or seminar.

ARTICLE 5 · Module Weighting

The weighting coefficients of all modules are set when each training pathway is designed; they are communicated to learners by notice board before the pathway begins.

ARTICLE 6 · End-of-Training Project (Professionalisation Pathway)

The end-of-training report grade, Nr (out of 20), is determined as follows:

FORMULA

$$Nr = 0.2 \times N1 + 0.3 \times N2 + 0.5 \times N3$$

N1 = tutor's grade during the practical placement · N2 = supervisor's grade · N3 = defence-jury's grade

ARTICLE 7 · Overall End-of-Training Average (Professionalisation Pathway)

The overall training average is calculated as follows:

FORMULA

$$\text{Overall Average} = 0.75 \times \left[\frac{\sum(\alpha_i \times N_i)}{\sum \alpha_i} \right] + 0.25 \times Nr$$

Ni = average for module i · α_i = weighting coefficient of module i · Nr = end-of-training report grade

ARTICLE 8 · Grading Scale of Distinctions

Overall Average	Distinction	Recommendation
$OA \geq 16$	Excellent	High potential identified
$14 \leq OA < 16$	Good	May take up the position fully autonomously
$12 \leq OA < 14$	Fairly Good	May take up the position under supervision
$10 \leq OA < 12$	Average	Cannot take up the position before further training
$OA < 10$	Insufficient	Change of profile through conversion training

ARTICLE 9 · Analysis of Results and Decision of the End-of-Training Jury

End-of-training results are analysed by the pedagogical department responsible for the training action. Following this analysis, recommendations for supplementary training and support will be made in line with any gaps observed.

A gap in technical skills is deemed to exist where the final result for a module falls below 12/20 (60%). The end-of-training report is submitted for validation to the School's Pedagogical Council, which presents it to the Institute's jury; the jury takes the final decision.

The final decision and the end-of-training report are communicated to each learner's home entity and to SONATRACH's Training & Planning Directorate. Award of an IAP Certificate of Success is conditional upon end-of-training results being validated and approved by the School's jury. Failing this, a Certificate of Participation is issued.

ARTICLE 10 · Organisation of the School Pedagogical Council and the Institute Jury

The School's Pedagogical Council is composed of:

School Director — Chairman	Sub-Director of Studies
Heads of Pedagogical Departments	Head of the Training Department
Two (02) trainers from the same specialism as the cohort

The School Director may call upon any IAP expertise deemed necessary for the analysis and review of end-of-training results.

ARTICLE 11 · Special Provisions

Admission conditions and the evaluation method for any training delivered under a partnership with other training institutions are set out in the agreement or contract binding the IAP to the Partner.

III GENERAL DISCIPLINE SECTION

ARTICLE 1 · Attendance and Punctuality

- Learners must strictly observe the class schedule set out in the pre-established timetable. The Trainer may deny latecomers access to classrooms, simulation rooms and laboratories, and treat them as absent.
- During class hours, learners are under the direct authority of the Trainers, to whom they owe respect and obedience.
- The break between two sessions is set at 15 minutes maximum.
- If a Trainer is absent, the group leader must inform the head of the relevant pedagogical department or, failing that, the Head of the Training Department. The group must remain in the classroom or laboratory and await instructions.
- All knowledge assessments (continuous assessment, long tests and summative evaluations), placements and visits are mandatory; any related unjustified absence will be penalised with a grade of zero (0). In addition, for placements and visits, any unjustified absence will be reviewed by the School's Disciplinary Council, which will impose a sanction.
- Any learner accumulating unjustified absences equal to or exceeding ten percent (10%) of the total hours of a module, or equal to or exceeding twenty percent (20%) of the total hours of all modules completed during a training phase, will have their case referred to the School's Disciplinary Council, which may impose a sanction up to and including exclusion. This sanction is final and not subject to appeal.
- Collective absence from a lecture, tutorial or practical-work session, or from a test, is assessed by the Trainer and the Pedagogical Department. Collective absence from an examination is also referred to the Disciplinary Council.
- In the case of a foreseeable absence, the learner must notify the Head of the Pedagogical Department, providing supporting documentation.
- In the case of a justified absence from an examination or test, the learner is authorised to sit a make-up assessment.

Any other clearly established failure of diligence noted by a Trainer will be submitted, through the hierarchical channel, to the Disciplinary Council by the Trainer concerned within 48 hours. Justified absences are as follows:
